A human cell line, designated as HL-60, was established from AML-M2. The HL-60 cells showed many myeloid characteristics. They were adherent, fibroblast-like, and lacked colony-forming activity at 20 per cent standard cell concentration. They were positive for monocyte markers, C3b receptor, lacto-N-fucose moiety and some other markers as detected by indirect immunofluorescence and rosette-forming assays. They failed to express antigens on their surface of B, T, and null lymphoid cells. By the end of 1 month of treatment with 12-O-tetra-decanoylphorbol-13-acetate, the cells were blocked at G0-G1 phase of the cell cycle. They showed high mitotic activity and were highly resistant to X-irradiation. Chemically inactivated measles virus (MV) caused syncytium formation and was strongly growth-inhibited by the virus. In addition, viable but non-infectious MV prevented the growth of HL-60 cells. The susceptibility of the cell line to measles virus was similar to that of freshly isolated human promyelocytes.1. MUMBAI: A DJ at a well known music bar was banned for life after her latest show featured her wearing a swimming costume, a police officer said on Monday. The officer said Nina Bhavnani had to cancel her recent â€˜Harare Beatâ€™ show because of a tight security cordon imposed by guards at the venue. Bhavnani, who had dressed in black, with her lips darkened, stood out at the bar and security guards asked her to take it off. "She was told by a security guard that if she ever. .
