.Q: Where are the errors in this Python 3.3 code? I'm trying to write some Python code on 2.7.6 but there seems to be a problem with my code. `import operator`
`def priority (op):`
`def f(g, x):` return op(x, g(x))
`return f`
`def f3(y):` x = y + 1
`return x`
`def f4(y):` return f3(y) + 4
`def f5(y):` return f4(y - 1)
`print(priority(operator.gt))(f5(1))` I want to get an error message at the print statement. This is the error I am getting: Traceback (most recent call last): File "C:\Users\admin\Desktop\test.py", line 16, in `print(priority(operator.gt))(f5(1))` TypeError: priority() missing 1 required positional argument: 'y' A: When you call f5(1), f5 returns None because it has no return statement. Then when you pass that to priority and call it on None, you get a TypeError. You need to return the result of f4 `def f4(y):` return f3(y) + 4 or just `def f4(y):` return f3(y) + 4 Q: A nontrivial question of simple extensions
