LostPatcher | MAC &
Windows: The best application to recover deleted files from your hard drive. Q: sans-serif-font doesn't work with ShadowDOM I'm using shadowDOM together with sans-serif-font and I found a strange behaviour. It's not about the snippet, I'm talking about the element here. Sans Broken! Sans And the styles p { font-family:'sans-serif',

-apple-system,
BlinkMacSystemFont, "Segoe
UI", Roboto, "Helvetica
Neue", Arial, sans-serif,
"Apple Color Emoji", "Segoe
UI Emoji", "Segoe UI Symbol"; } .sans-serif-font {

---

font-family:'sans-serif'; } I was trying to prevent the font from being rendered in the first p, which works perfectly. The only problem comes with the second p, which doesn't change the font at all. I created a CodePen here that shows this behaviour. I'm also puzzled by the fact that when I remove the above CSS, it starts to work again. Is it a bug or I'm missing something? A: I know your issue is about fonts. In shadowdom, CSS doesn't have any effect. What you're trying to do is very simple. Use an attribute selector: I've created an example. It's not perfect but it will give you an idea.

Can you see what my windows are transparent? Then you surely know that you can only see certain parts of your window from other parts. For example, if you have your window, you can see a desktop behind, a toolbar, you can see parts of other windows, but you cannot see the corners of the windows itself. Can you see what my windows are transparent? If you like the idea of not seeing certain parts of the window, then it is certainly time to try out a software that allows you to do it. Glass2k is meant for people who want to use full transparency on Windows, and if your operating system has no such feature or offers poor one - then you won't be able to work effectively. You can use the tool with any window, not just the selected one, because there is no need to press only certain hotkeys - just use a combination of keys on the keyboard, as any of them will be accepted as equal to Glass2k. We do strongly recommend you to see a demonstration, because the software is working just as good in real environment. Important: Glass2k only works on Windows XP, Vista, 7, 8 and 10. Like it? Love it?

---
