Contents Default Photoshop Layers Upon starting Photoshop, it includes a default group of layers that contain default raster content. These layers include layers for the background (for reference, background and foreground transparency), canvas, text, and a new type of layer known as a Smart Object. The following are descriptions of the different layers that comprise Photoshop's default group of layers. Blend If you use the Minus Front functionality to subtract an image from a layer, you get a new layer that is then available for modifying. When that layer is minimized, you'll notice that there is a slider bar with the word "Blend" in it. You can adjust that slider to get a more blended effect. Background If you have the Background layer checked in the Layers panel, you can see that there is a layer of the same name. A Background layer is a default layer that contains the background. You can use this layer to subtract a background of a photograph to either remove a background or add your own background, as illustrated in this screenshot.

Canvas This layer can be used to draw anything you want on the main Photoshop canvas.

Clone This layer creates a copy of an existing layer and can be used to quickly duplicate, edit, and make multiple copies of a single layer (e.g. text layer) for placement.

Convert Clipboard A special Convert Clipboard layer enables you to create a duplicate layer of an existing layer by pasting a new layer into the canvas. This layer can then be edited.

Comp Adjust A default layer used to change the contrast of an image and adjust the brightness of an image. Curves If you scroll over the mouse and a menu appears, you can alter the contrast. Crop This is a tool that is used to clip a portion of an image, so that an entire image is cropped. This can be done manually or automatically. Default This layer contains the default settings that Photoshop uses to initialize each new document. Designed Edits The Adaptive icon next to this layer ensures that the Clone tool preserves the original location and rotation of the copied layer. Fill A special layer that can contain semi-transparent colors or even gradients or patterns. Filter A filter layer can provide special effects on an image. For example, a filter layer can apply a sepia color filter to an image. Gradient This is a layer that is used for

Because it was made for amateurs, it is easy to use. All you need to do is drag the image you wish to work on to the screen and click on the tools and features you want to use. For example, you can either delete an image and replace it with the new one, or merge two images together. You can even check out the manual online to learn how to use the program for the first time. However, more detailed tutorials are available online or in text-based guides. Check out some of our favourites. You'll learn how to: Delete unwanted objects from an image Use trim and crop to crop, cut and paste images Fix red eye and white spots on a photo Overlay and merge photographs Quickly edit and correct a photo Learn about Photoshop Elements Selection is an important tool for many people, especially graphic designers, web designers and photographers. It is used to highlight parts of an image that they want to have in the final product. For example, if you want to crop out a car from a photo, you'll want to cut out the car with a selection tool. To start using a selection tool, open an image and click on the icon. Alternatively, you can use the keyboard and type the name of the tool in its own box. Photoshop Elements has tools to select and remove objects, clones objects and even mask objects. If you want to delete or merge selected parts of an image into another picture, click the Delete or Merge options. If you want to fix an image with Photoshop Elements, start by selecting it. After selecting the image, click on the Enhance menu and select the Type tool. You'll see the type tool appears in the canvas. Use the tool to clean up the image. If you don't want to use the type tool, click on the word Type in the menu bar. However, before you can do this, you need to activate the Type tool first by clicking on the eye icon on the tool. Click on the eye icon again to turn it off. Click on the type tool. You will see the following: The font box is where you will click. Click and drag where you want the type tool to appear. The text box is where you add the font name. The most important thing about the text box is where you put the font name in.

Childhood diabetes is associated with increased incidence of all-cause and cardiovascular disease mortality in adults: the Maastricht Study. The aim of this study was to explore whether childhood diabetes is associated with all-cause and cardiovascular disease mortality in adults. In a population-based cohort of initially 7,634 Dutch individuals (baseline age 43.0 [standard deviation 13.3] years; 57% women), we compared all-cause and cardiovascular disease mortality between subjects with childhood diabetes (n = 993) with subjects who never had diabetes (n = 6,841). The mortality risks of diabetes with and without severity were compared. Childhood diabetes was associated with all-cause (hazard ratio [95% confidence interval] 1.69 [1.52-1.87]), cardiovascular disease (1.66 [1.45-1.90]), and diabetes-related (1.58 [1.24-2.02]) mortality in adulthood, after adjustment for age, sex, body mass index, blood pressure, physical activity, smoking, triglycerides, alcohol intake, and serum cholesterol. There was an increase in all-cause mortality risk with increasing duration of diabetes (1.35 [1.09-1.68] for diabetes lasting >12 months; 1.52 [1.20-1.94] for diabetes lasting >10 years; and 1.83 [1.12-3.02] for diabetes lasting >20 years; P for trend =.005), and with insulin use (2.15 [1.68-2.76]). The risk of cardiovascular disease mortality was highest (1.77 [1.07-2.94]) in subjects with diabetes without severity, and doubled in those with multiple severe complications (3.53 [1.40-8.90]). Childhood diabetes is associated with increased all-cause and cardiovascular disease mortality in adulthood, possibly explained by increased severity of the disease.

Q: Hide and show div with function onclick I'm new to javascript and I'm trying to make a function which hides and shows divs depending on a button which is clicked. The code at the moment is working when the first button is clicked (It shows all of the divs, but then when you click on the second button it hides them all), but when you click again it doesn't hide them and keeps showing them all. I don't know what I'm doing wrong. Could anyone help me please? Thanks. html: Bootstrap starter template
