Q: Only allow numbers from 1-9999 I'm trying to validate my numeric textbox to only allow numbers from 1-9999. I have a clean number textbox in a WPF application. This textbox will be connected to an Oracle database, so I will not have the ability to change the database schema for the number field. I need to prevent the user from entering invalid input and the number should be set to 0 when the user enters invalid input. I tried to use a regular expression pattern similar to the following (in C#) but it fails if the number is only 1 character long, because the digit test fails, even though it should pass if it is only 1 character long. string _pattern = "^(0[1-9]
