I have one virtual directory (/company) and two physical directories (/company1 and /company2). On local machine, everything works fine. When i publish the web app, it works fine on localhost.

As soon as I deploy it to IIS, after a while it just stops responding. IIS logs reveal nothing. This happens only on IIS. Firefox can handle the website without problems, but chrome and internet explorer return the following error: The page is not available. The requested URL was not found on this server I have already tried to set "Compression" to "off" on the virtual directory in web.config, "Static Content Compression" to "off" on the web server config, and "FastCGI" and "FastCGI with static content compression" to "true" and "on" on the IIS config. The page finally loads when the website is reloaded, but after a while it crashes again. A: I have solved the problem myself. The problem is that the IIS 7.5 has a limit of how many concurrent requests it can handle. It suddenly stopped working once i have exceeded that limit and I didn't find a way to increase it. Q: How to integrate e^{-x} using the second derivative method without using anti-derivatives I'm writing a practice for my exam, and I know that to integrate e^{-x} using the second method we take the derivative of $F(x) = e^{-x}$ and then using the product rule we get $\frac{d^2}{dx^2}e^{-x}$. What I want to know is how to integrate e^{-x} using the second method without using any anti-derivatives. I have tried a lot but keep ending
