This amazing set of icon is simply packed with a collection of icons which include:Q: Reading changing values from a remote server and storing it in a.txt file using C# I need to retrieve the URL values from a remote server every minute and store it in a file for further analysis. We need to write a code in C# and this code should work in ASP.NET 1.1 with Visual Web Developer Express. Can anybody tell me how to do that? A: Here you go, no external tools needed: private void Timer1_Tick(object sender, EventArgs e) { string url = ""; WebRequest request = WebRequest.Create(""); WebResponse response = request.GetResponse(); Stream dataStream = response.GetResponseStream(); StreamReader reader = new StreamReader(dataStream); string responseFromServer = reader.ReadToEnd(); reader.Close(); response.Close(); url = responseFromServer; File.WriteAllText("c:\\Users\\user\\Desktop\\myfile.txt", url); } What is also notable, with Wyman and Wyatt both breaking into the starting lineup, is the return of Jermaine Kearse, who is back at the top of his game in camp. Kearse, in many ways, is the opposite of Herron. Kearse is much smaller (5'11" vs. 6'2") and yet he is almost as fast as him when he creates room. More than that, Kearse is a solid route runner who can be used as a screen and receiver out of the backfield. He is coming off arguably the worst season of his career, but there is no reason why he couldn't be a much more effective player than he was last year. As for Herron, as long as he continues to grow, there is no reason to think he can't do the same things that Roddy White can do. Of course, Herron isn't as big as White, but he's no less fast (I think he's probably faster) and he's shown an ability to get on the field early
