google voice dialer is a taskbar application that provides a simple and easy to use interface for using the google voice application. The trays allow you to make and take phone calls with one click. If you are new to voice applications and are looking to make your first call simply click on the dial button. Once you place the call you can simply press the hangup button to send the call. How to Install GVDialer Serial Key: GVDialer needs to be installed in the Taskbar tray of your Windows operating system. You can download GVDialer for free. To download GVDialer, click on the Download link below. You will be downloading a file. Click on the download icon next to the Download button and save it to your preferred location. If you have Windows Vista or later you can download the GVDialer Components and install it from the Add/Remove Programs option on the Control Panel. After downloading and installing GVDialer, you will see a .diz file icon in the file browser. Right click on this icon and select Run. You will then need to click on the Google Voice section of the Application. GVDialer will now open up the Google Voice application. GVDialer Main Screen: GVDialer will show up in your tray. Right click on GVDialer and select Task Manager GVDialer Task Managers: That's it! GVDialer will work with various Google Voice applications. You'll be able to make/receive/transfer calls from the tray and the number of calls you can make are limited only by your Google Voice account. I'm still in the process of fine tuning GVDialer to provide the best possible experience but you can leave any comments below. GVDialer Screenshots: Disclaimer This tutorial was tested on Windows 8.1. GVDialer has not been tested on Windows 10. GVDialer doesn't include any options to optimize network data usage. I would strongly suggest you to use an alternative application for that purpose. A: Besides GVDialer that already mentioned, there is also the official Google Voice application for Windows, available at Screenshot 6a5afdab4c
