"Budweiser's new location, under construction at 123 Kings Highway East, is the first retail liquor store to open on Staten Island," the company said in a press release. WCBS reports that local politician Greg Casale expects a bright future for the new store. "It is good that they are opening a second location in Staten Island," Casale said. "It will reduce the customer travel and convenience for shoppers who want to pick up a bottle of wine or beer on their way home from work or shopping in other Staten Island stores." Budweiser is expected to add an additional 120 jobs to the Island's economy. "We are excited to open our second location here on Staten Island," said Budweiser's Vice President and CFO Paul Polman. "This will help us meet the needs of local residents." The first store will open to the public on December 12, 2012. The new store will be opening at the end of the month. KARACHI: A leading banking executive has disclosed that one of the key reasons behind the failure of various banks of Pakistan was shortage of capital. "Banks are struggling with insufficient capital, and the crisis is deepening every day", said Zulfi Ullah Khan at an event organised by the Karachi Chamber of Commerce and Industry (KCCI) in Defence on Saturday. "Our banks are operating with low capital due to government's neglect. At least Rs3 trillion of capital is required to run banks, and only Rs1.2 trillion is being generated by them", said Mr Khan, who is the Director General of the State Bank of Pakistan (SBP). He added that the banks were also suffering from lack of staff and no recruitment drive was made by the government as a result of which bank services were getting affected. He said that one of the reasons of the bank failure was also rise in bad loans and double taxation, which was a national problem.

1. It is a q-gram-based contig mapping tool. It works by comparing the reference to the contigs and then assigns a score (quality score) for each pair of reference genome and a contig. 2. The contigs are then ordered in the descending order of this score and grouped by their contig IDs. 3. The contigs can be either compared against the reference genome or provided as sequences in FASTA format. Rolling bearings are already known, in which the sealing member is disposed in a recess formed in the flange and the sealing member has an internal sealing surface. The recess, however, has a bottom surface which is defined by the flange and as a result the sealing member does not project outside the flange. As a result, there is a high risk of soiling the external cylindrical surface of the cage. DE 691 12 627 T2 discloses a rolling bearing with a cage of synthetic resin which is provided with a continuous inner cylindrical surface and which has an opening for receiving an inner ring, wherein a sealing member is disposed in the opening. The sealing member is a sealing ring made of an elastic material and has a cylindrical, elastic sealing surface. The bearing is mounted on the component with the sealing ring being pressed into the radial direction against a sealing surface formed on a flange of the component. The radial expansion of the sealing ring is limited by the sealing surface. There is a high risk of the sealing surface in the flange being deformed. DE 198 54 670 A1 discloses a synthetic-resin flange for a rolling bearing, which flange has a circumferential rim, and a circumferential groove being formed in the circumferential rim and having a cylindrical wall and an end wall. The axial opening of the flange is lined with a sealing member which covers the end wall. The sealing member has a cylindrical, elastic sealing surface which lies in contact with the circumferential wall and the cylindrical wall of the flange. The sealing member is pressed into the flange. The sealing member is not disposed in a recess and accordingly has a possibility of soiling the external cylindrical surface of the cage. DE 198 50 803 A1 discloses a rolling bearing with
