Anyway, It's true Windows themes are very useful. Anyway, keep up the good work." Michel says:"Amazin' sunset theme. OK, it doesn't provide you the information about the sun position, but if you are more interested in the weather or the next sunrise/sunset hour than on the exact date and time of sunset, I don't think this is a problem. However, no matter how much I love them, I never install any of them as a desktop wallpaper, just because I'm very strict about the appearance of my computer. Even if it is a little hot pink, it doesn't go with everything." Victor says:"Well it's not my style, but I guess people who know how to use this theme would be happy. I love the sunset because I'm a pilot and I love flight a lot, and I'm trying to make more frequent trips to places near my home but I haven't been able to make it yet. I used the position of the sun a lot of times trying to calculate my flight route." Von says:"This isn't really useful if you are not located in a country with a time zone that's different from your own, as the time of sunset isn't accurate. I like the theme and I intend to

I use it for few months and only change the Color Scheme but I love this theme!!! The only thing, that I wasn't exactly happy with, was the taskbar. The pictures are done in a very good way and they match the colors from the Explorer's window exactly. I tried to change the theme (Even it's not the problem), because at work I saw the boss's desktop and it was so different than the one in my computer at home! But in return, the colors there were very classy, but as I see, they do not fit in with my background. I was not able to change anything on the taskbar. P.S. I don't know why the theme is so quiet busy. Because all the text is white and there are no pictures there. I use it for few months and only change the Color Scheme but I love this theme!!!
