As the number of public and private colleges and universities increases, so does the number of librarians employed in these institutions. Changes in technology and the popularity of distance education have made it difficult for librarians to maintain their job security. In addition, increased employment in special-purpose and academic libraries has made it difficult for those librarians to move up to a full-time career in librarianship. To help address these problems, the Collaborative for Academic, Technical, and Professional Education (CATEPE) and the Association for Library and Information Services in Higher Education (ALISE) 1cdb3666d

$('input[type="checkbox"]').on('change', function() { console.log(""); console.log(this.value); }); I'm fairly new to this and that could help a lot thanks A: $('input[type="checkbox"]').on('change', function() { if (this.value == "1") { //do your thing } }); Q: How to create a startup image in my app? I have an app that is being shipped in the Amazon Appstore. In the Amazon portal there is an option to choose from a 'startup image'. When I open the app in my device I see this image not the one I created. How can I force the app to use my startup image when I open it on the device? A: I use this to load my user interface public void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); View view = getLayoutInflater().inflate(R.layout.main, null); setContentView(view); It was getting dark; the rain was falling hard and soundlessly. Just as he reached the crossroad, he saw the red lights of an approaching police car. As the car pulled up behind him, he automatically reached for his wallet in his pocket.
