Senate Passes Higher Minimum Wage Bill Republican opposition in the Iowa Senate overcame enough Democrat defections Tuesday to pass Senate File 2125, a bill raising the minimum wage for Iowa employees to $9 an hour by 2015. The bill passed with a 27-23 vote. The bill now heads back to the Iowa House of Representatives. The bill would raise the minimum wage to $7.75 an hour on July 1, 2011, then increase the rate to $8.25 in 2012 and $9 in 2013. It would continue to increase at $1.25 an hour each July 1 following until it reaches the federal minimum of $7.25 in 2014. Democrats introduced the bill. Republican Sen. Amy Sinclair was the bill's primary sponsor. Sinclair said Tuesday that some of her arguments were hurt because Republicans ignored the bill for too long. She pointed to a second minimum wage bill that failed last session. She said she feels good about the fact that it passed when she heard on Tuesday that her Republican colleagues left her alone to lead the charge on the bill and didn't put the bill on the calendar last month like they normally do. When it came time to vote, Sinclair said she got a little "unsteady" as she waited for the roll call. When it was over, she said she was "choked up" and "crying" in her office with a couple of her fellow Democrats. "I was really proud of what we were able to accomplish," Sinclair said, "and I was really surprised because I have felt the entire time that we have been in opposition in the past that we have been treated with great disrespect and we've had good intentions but bad timing." Of course, there are many Republicans that see eye-to-eye with Sinclair and the Democrats on the bill.
