SHUTTLE is a web application that allows users to create interactive web maps. It was developed by Affine Logic. The application is compatible with Macs, PCs, and Linux operating systems. SHUTTLE provides one hundred different map styles, as well as the ability to import existing graphics and map elements. The database is updated automatically as soon as new maps are uploaded. The web app is comprised of several different elements, which are easily navigated and connected. The ability to create multiple maps means that the user can choose to edit one or more at once. In order to create a map, the first step is to select a map style. Then, create a project, add map elements, and customize them. After that, the map can be accessed online. At present, the application is compatible with all browsers, and works only in a web browser. The process of creating a map on SHUTTLE is simple, and users can choose to modify an existing map or start from scratch. To open the application, it is necessary to input some basic information, and then you will be sent to the map editor. The map style and any settings can be modified in the main editor, which includes text. In terms of color, users will see a preview of what a selected element will look like, and their choice can be saved for later use. Each map element can be edited individually. The platform is a Google Maps compatible alternative, which means that it is suitable for sharing maps via social networks.
