Ocean's Eleven', Ocean's Twelve, Ocean's Thirteen, Ocean's Fourteen. The boys in blue and the girls in black are more than your average gang of pirates. Their names are entered in the Guinness Book of World Records, they walk the mean streets of London, they're back on top of the world. They are the Game Factory Pirates! We work on games, we are indie game developers, and we want you to play our games. Play 2 games at the same time, play them in Multiplayer, or create a gamepad profile and drop it into your library of games! We have a mobile game, a browser game, a Facebook game, and a Unity platform game! Everything but one Steam game so far, but we are working on that! This is your chance to be a part of history! We do not work just as a team, we all have a say in everything! Just like a family would, we all have an opinion, we all make decisions and we all accept responsibility for it. We will work the entire weekend, and when we're done, you will have your own copy of the game! Update We're still on track to release the game on Friday, as mentioned in our previous post. We have added just a few more fixes, and we have released the Steam version of the game to the public! The game is still available on the EU and North American servers, as well as the Ocean's Eleven, Ocean's Twelve, and Ocean's Thirteen Map Pack. The only thing you need to know, is that we will be shutting the servers down this Thursday and Friday for maintenance, from 00:00 UTC on Friday to 23:59 UTC on Monday, April 10th. This means that there will be no activity allowed from the game, and you will not be able to log in! In the meantime, we'll keep you posted on our progress on both our Twitter account, and our Forum! Planned to release on Friday, April 7th, 2013. For more information, please visit our Website. Update We're closing in on the release of Ocean's Eleven! We're building towards a release of the first complete version of the game tomorrow morning, and we'll be setting things up to ensure that the servers are

What's new:

As promised, I'm going to start using the module adaptation we called for in our Dungeon Crawl Classics campaign. The prompt was to use one of our Adventure Paths from DCC, which gave me the inspiration for my own use of a module adaptation, or a nod to the module itself. The Adventure Path that inspired this issue of Adventures Adapted is The Crystal Cave. Their first adventure, "Reaching The Crystal Cave", is a short adventure designed to be taken in sequence with the main story arc, simply invoking the adventure in order to get the characters to it. Sometimes a game will only be able to rely on a short adventure to promote a new area or map layout, or one that is designed to setup certain mechanics, which is exactly what The Crystal Cave is doing. The Crystal Cave is the stronghold of an entity known as the Cult of the Crystal Scar, a cult that worships the chaotic forces that are the opposite of order - chaos. The Cult is divided into several different factions, and with the four nuclears of their organization disbanding over the course of the scenario, the Crystal Cave becomes the favorite of each member's. The Crystal Cave is also hiding a prototype theoretical physics device, the Great Machine - an object that is invisible to any outside observer. Within the first 5 minutes of the scenario, we are already introduced to an occult bent religion, we are introduced to the concept of hiding in plain sight, and we are introduced to one of the primary mechanics of the adventure: divination. All four of these concepts are key to the Crystal Cave, and we will be using them often in this adventure. The Crystal Cave in Crawl The Crystal Cave is based off of the adventure module by Bruce Cordell, Ten Thunders of the Maelstrom. Bruce has adapted the adventure to use the format of DCC, and given it three lives: The Crystal Cave was published for Crawl the First in 2012. In this edition, Bruce had to undertake minor alterations to fit the Crawl parser rules, especially making each round 0-10 rather than running from 4-10. Crystal Cave was published for Crawl the Second in February 2018. In this edition, Bruce had to rewrite the main thrust of the adventure, mostly due to the incorporation of the rules for Panoptican Opolythics - thinking time cubes. His changes are largely carried over from the Crawl the First

Meet the Hero. Based on a true story. The Age of Heroic Times. 5 years ago, a group of heroes slayed the Demon Lord. In the time since, a number of rogue generals have escaped, still causing havoc. The nation is once again at war. A group of adventurers has traveled to the remote forest to face the rogue generals in order to bring peace to the land once again. As a hero, your goal is to explore the forest and rescue the rogue generals. Along the way, you will discover the mysterious past of the Demon Princess. Face many gruesome monsters, enter dungeons, and find a family of young lovebirds hiding in the deep forest... No worries, they are quite friendly! The dark magic powers of the Demon Princess Several times per battle, the Demon Princess will appear. This blood-thirsty tyrant will taunt and distract you with her bloodlust as she seeks to kill you and free herself. While this may seem like a plot device to scare you, in truth, it is the exact opposite. * The Demon Princess is actually Omaylas, the Dark Magic Queen! * She is locked inside the forest by demon powers! * Her past is a deeply troubling one. * She has been sealed in a magical prison in order to escape this fate. As a hero of justice, your mission is to not only rescue her, but in turn, give a second chance to Omaylas. * Have you ever heard the one about a girl trapped in the forest by demon powers? The decision is yours. This fate could forever change the Hero... * If the hero decides to kill Omaylas, she will be set free. * If the hero chooses to bring her back to the Capital, she will be taken to be executed. There is no middle ground. You have but a limited number of options, so you must make the correct decision for both Omaylas and the nation. Once the hero chooses one of the paths laid before him, the outcome will be sealed. And the consequences are dire! When the Hero meets Omaylas, the Demon Princess The hero, Omaylas, and the Demon Princess all have a common bond. Both were once the princess of a Demon Lord. In a separate history, the Demon Lord was defeated and the Demon Princess was imprisoned in a magical prison after refusing to aid him against the
