Associated Press KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A Missouri River levee broke on Saturday, threatening to flood smaller levees where residents live and prompting Gov. Eric Greitens to declare a state of emergency. The levee break happened in Jefferson County, where the Missouri Department of Natural Resources said it was quickly and successfully contained. The Jefferson County Conservation and Protection Agency is working with the Jefferson County Emergency Management Agency to assess the situation. It said the agency was activated and everything was done that could have been done. Levees can still be breached and one county downstream still had a high enough water level, but the river had receded enough that residents were no longer in immediate danger. The land is largely farm, though some businesses could be affected if the water makes its way there. The National Weather Service issued flood warnings on most rivers and streams

The website for Identity Evropa, which identifies itself as a “historic American nationalist organization,” on Wednesday posted a statement assuring its members that its members are “people of all races who seek to protect their European heritage and are unapologetic in our support of the interests of our European people.” But after it was informed by Facebook that the social media platform was “determined to remove all public support and representation” of the group, Identity Evropa’s spokesperson told NBC News that its members are “a vocal group of high value individuals who have been unfairly discredited by irrational and malicious efforts to ruin them personally.” According to The Times, Identity Evropa’s spokesperson continued: “We think it is increasingly important for people to know that the scourge of multiculturalism and the assault on European heritage is not being perpetrated by a small but vocal group of disgruntled people, but by those who dominate our culture and mainstream media, and if they continue to act in this manner, we have every intention of opposing their agenda at the polls, in the court system, and on the battlefield, and to that end we intend to welcome all of the support that we can get to help us do so.” The spokesperson went on to decry the creation of safe spaces and a study on white privilege.For All Time (Natalie Merchant album 0cc13bf012

Übersetzung aamtalk.com is a discussion forum for Autodesk Animator the Autodesk animation software. 94% AutoCAD Files | AutoCAD Software In this video I show you how to view standard windows files in Autodesk Animator via a virtual drive. 100% AutoCAD Tools & Utilities This video talks about creating a new Autodesk Animator project from scratch with just a file. My version of Autodesk Animator is 2018 V 3.9.1014. The installation file was created for 32 bit Windows 7. I used Autodesk Animator Tools and had a few problems doing so. To activate the software I used Autodesk Softtools (2013) - 32 bit - full version Video Tutorial I create a New Project in Autodesk Animator... Install the software Download the template project to my folder Import the file into my project using the File > Open... Select the "Import" option in the Utilities menu I have this option grayed out (probably an older version of the software) so it did nothing. I then selected the file I wanted. I can now see the project in a new window. From the menu I exported the project to FBX. Note this is a resource file (in this case a GL file) and not a geometry file like the other resource files Autodesk provides. To import the project into 3D, I need to convert it to a geometry file. To do this I need to unlock the Geometry File Encryption. Video Tutorial Make sure you turn off hardware acceleration
