NEW DELHI: A Delhi court on Monday sentenced to death a 28-year-old man to death after framing and framing charge in fake dowry and killing a woman in a case which also involved the alleged assault on her minor daughter and a friend who went to her rescue. Special Judge Tripti Mani, who was additional sessions judge in her previous posting, sentenced the accused identified as Shivam Raju to death by hanging for killing Anju Sharma in December last year. Special Public Prosecutor Ujjwal Ahluwalia told the court that he did not have any objection to the death sentence as sought by the prosecution as he did not have any other evidence against the accused, who was engaged to the deceased. Special Public Prosecutor Ujjwal Ahluwalia told the court that he did not have any objection to the death sentence as sought by the prosecution as he did not have any other evidence against the accused, who was engaged to the deceased. According to the prosecution, the accused had lured the deceased to his rented apartment in Vasant Kunj on December 27 last year and there, he took away Rs. one lakh in demand from the victim after offering her alcohol and sexually assaulting her. He also filed a false complaint of dowry demand against her in court which resulted in framing her of the offence. The accused repeatedly tried to shoot at her in an attempt to end her life but on every attempt, he was overpowered by the accused's daughter and the deceased's daughter. At the same time, other two were also assaulted by the accused as they came for the deceased's rescue. Ahluwalia said he had not sought death sentence for the accused as he did not have any evidence against him. "Even the prosecution has not revealed the identity of the accused, who allegedly killed the
