Rivellon is a Forgotten Realms world that has existed for countless ages, before recorded history. It is an undiscovered land teeming with exotic creatures, majestic architecture, and exotic races - a realm where magic is as much a part of the landscape as the four cardinal directions. When thieves broke in and stole a mystical tome of eldritch power, the Sisters of Occisus - powerful sorceresses sworn to protect the Balance between magic and humanity - teamed up with a party of misfits and werewolves to recover it, and their quest led to a larger conspiracy spanning the continent. Divinity:

Original Sin 2 lets you play as any of the party members and explore the spectacular world in a myriad of meaningful and entertaining ways. Come, find your destiny and become the hero of your own legends! We hope you'll enjoy this soundtrack of adventure. ## What's new:

Part 1 Alan Cooper 09:03, September 13, 2017 Lost aboard a freighter bound for a remote outpost in search of a missing crew. On a search party to investigate a mysterious distress signal. In the middle of a dreadful hunting expedition to capture an elusive and dangerous beast. Deep Space—an all-new audio series for X-Plane. Deep Space is a brand new OST, written by game developer Alan Cooper, who has traveled to the boundless stars in search of storytellers and songwriters. The series will premiere in the coming weeks, and includes a day in the life of the Thunder 5 crew's first battle against the deadly Minotaur. Alan's a veteran game composer, having written music for iconic franchises including Doom, Quake, and Arachnid, and he's composed over $100M worth of songs for the music industry. His first goal for the Deep Space OST, however, is to have recorded a lonely, harrowing tale that captures a sense of suffering and fear in space. "I've been listening to and watching space documentaries for years, and once you have that kind of eagerness to immerse yourself in space, you want a good reason to be there. Deep Space has already reeled me in, and I hope it draws in many others." - Alan Cooper Alan Cooper is no stranger to story, having written music for Doom, Quake, and other seminal first person shooters for nearly 20 years, having also written several award-winning commercials, such as "Arms of Justice," "First FootPrint", and "Firewomen". Deep Space is his ultimate frontier, where he takes pride in creating a new character and setting in a science fiction universe, and bringing to life a compelling story in which things go wrong, and not always in the obvious way. Working with a game music veteran who has successfully tapped into the human psyche for decades, Alan's primary goal is to write music that captures the pain and suffering of an epic tale of space heroes facing their darkest hour yet. With a contemporary touch, the composer has crafted beautiful melodies, vibrant orchestrations, and emotionally rich atmospheres for listeners to enjoy. That approach resonates well in this world where so many games are now capable of engaging and engaging players, using powerful orchestration and musical content to surpass the often-unimaginative basis
