I want to add a UIImageView above a UITableView, but have the table view resize to fit the width of the image. I tried to do this using the -(UITableView sizeThatFits:) method, but all it does is make the image appear as a tiny box. I know I could probably do this easily using a UITableViewCell, but I am trying to avoid this approach. A: I did this by creating a view that was the size of the entire table, then adding my image view to the view. Q: When I redirect page by document.location.href() the last URL change with jquery fade out. How to avoid this? I'm using this code $(document).ready(04aeff104c
